

MEET JESSICA & SHAUN

Oak Artisan Cookery

| By Noël Soisson

After exploring culinary delights from San Francisco to Philadelphia and working with some of the country's top chefs, Jessica and Shaun Wolf decided to build their dream restaurant right here in downtown Hanover.

Their vision was to offer a heightened dining experience that was also accessible enough to be a regular neighborhood spot featuring simple and seasonal dishes. Oak Artisan Cookery is the restaurant where Jessica and Shaun would want to eat.

In 2014, Shaun started the wood-fired pizza business, Artisans & Oak at The Markets at Hanover. Artisans & Oak quickly established itself with delicious creations that left customers wanting more. After eight years at The Markets, the couple decided to open a full restaurant where they could offer more than just pizza. Oak is where they can unleash their creativity by experimenting with ingredients and techniques, including cooking with clay pots and cast-iron pans to craft flawlessly executed food.

As the house pastry chef who trained in Pastry & Baking Arts at The Pennsylvania School of Culinary Arts at YTI, Jessica is a “total pasta girl”—she highly recommends Oak’s Lasagna Bolognese as well as their Pork Shank Osso Bucco. She also hopes they can bring a different way of eating to Hanover by introducing new flavors and dishes that reflect the duo’s expertise, tradition, and passion for food. Oak frequently changes its menu to make sure to offer the best each season has to offer.

In addition to creating delicious meals, Oak has a full bar with talented mixologists who are eager to share their creations to complete the dining experience. Jessica adds that their team has amazing palates and they’re able to add balance to each item on the menu.

On December 28th, Oak will celebrate its first anniversary in downtown Hanover. Jessica and Shaun opened this restaurant with the hopes of establishing a legacy for their family in their hometown, while supporting the downtown community they've loved for years. They care about the people who live and work downtown, especially their incredible staff who have played a critical role in their success. Their hope is that Oak can continue to foster a community spirit through delicious food for many years to come. ■
